Daily Thought,

Those Filipinos, who met in convention at Manila, condemned the Taft administration and indorsed Bryan, of course, are against the government. Now, if they will tell us what they expect Bryan to do for them, we will have a line on the Nebraskan's proposed policy. Are they the ones, who wish to set upon independent government, or those seeking a Japanese protectorate?

THE DAILY NIGHT RIDER. While our local Night Rider contemporary is publishing editorials under the caption "The Dawn of Rea son," decrying "Anarchy and and dark deeds, that higher ideals of modern civilization will not permit,' it never mentions night riding in words of protest, but its whole news policy is devoted in spirit and lan-with the crime. At no time was this spirit more an parent than in vesterday's account of the arrest of the men indicted for complicity in the Birmingham raid A description of the supposed entrance of the sheriff with the prisoners into Benton from Birmingham ran in this wise: "Like coming from a pleasant outing with accused men and officers alike jollying and joking each other, Sheriff Pete Eley and Deputy Sheriff Will Eley arrived in town late this afternoon with eight of the eleven alleged night riders. who had been indicted, as their prisoners. The sight that greeted citizens of Benton in the place of shackled and chained bad men, was a merry laughing crowd of ten horsemen that appeared like so many prosperous Kentucky planters on their way to a county fair."

Two purposes were evidently in view in the writing of that story. One was to create the impression that the grand jury investigation in Marshall county was a farce; and the other to make the prisoners feel good and "take the paper." The whole story was a beautiful work of imagi nation, and had the writer known the truth and actually been in Benton, as the date line inferred, he would have known that only one of the "prisoners" went to Benton, at all, and the Daily Night Rider could have spared the eight indicted men the vivid. one day before Judge Garrison over in though imaginative, description of their entrance into the county seat in charge of the sheriff. The description of soldiers in 'khaki" uniforms and heavy marchng order, when they are in blue uniforms and light marching order, with out "service tents," and wonderful stories about their disappearing "for days from 'Murray' when they hadn't been there "days" at the time the articles were written, are among the collection of romances the Daily Night Rider is producing.

OUR CONSULS.

In timely interest in connection with Secretary Taft's plea for better aid consuls is the report that United States Consul Fisher has won in his contention for recognition of Chinese authority in Manchuria. It is about the first indication of consular activity in diplomatic affairs. Russia and Japan have control of the railroad for their opinions or feelings. through Manchuria, Japan in the south and Russia in the north. They by agreement extended their control in their respective spheres over the towns in the railroad zones, thus creating Japanese and Russian municipalities in Chinese territory as the first step in land grabbing. United States and Germany protested. American interest is strongest in the south but the protest was made to Russia shelves, tables, sinks, faucets, forges, thus affording Japan no chance to burners, all cut out, fitted and ready quarrel with us, but putting her on notice of our intention. The result screws, nails, clamps or pipes ready of this movement is to create a difference between Japan and China and strengthen the bond between the United States and China. It will now be impossible for Japan to continue her aggressive policy in Manchuria and retain her standing at Pekin at the same time. Manchuria is valuable to Japan, but China will always be a menace to her in the event of a foreign war. So much for Roosevelt's reformation of the consul service.

LIVED in the place for three weeks. We were afoot shortly after daybreak, under way by sunup and at work before the heats began. Three of us worked on the buildings, and the rest formed a pack train carrying all sorts of things from the shore to the valley. The men grumbled fiercely at this, but Captain Selover drove them with slight regard

"You're getting double pay," was his only word. "Earn it!"

They certainly earned it during those three weeks. The things they brought up were astounding. Besides a lot of scientific apparatus and chests of chemical supplies, everything that could possibly be required had been provided by that omniscient young man. After we had built a long, low structure, windows were forthcoming. to our hands. When we had finished we had constructed as complete a laboratory on a small scale as you could find on a college campus, even to the stone pillar down to bed rock for delicate microscopic experiments and hot and cold water led from the springs. Almost immediately at the close of the freight carrying he had appeared, lugging his precious chest, this time suffering the assistance of Darrow, and had camped on the spot. We could not induce him to leave, so we put up a tent for him. Darrow remained with him by way of safety against the men, whose measure, I believe, he had taken. Now that all the work was finished, the doctor put in a sudden appearance.

"Percy," said he, "now we will have the defense built." He dragged us with him to the nar-

SUNDAY AT METHODIST. From the text "Hereby know we are the spirt of truth and the spirit of error," I John, 4:6; the Rev. G. T. Sullivan preached a strong ermon yesterday morning at the Broadway Methodist church on "The Spirit Dominating the Present Age.' E. Dodd, of the First Baptist church Dr. Sullivan emphasized the various last night, and a large congregation forms of the "strenuous life" today was present. Dr. Dodd dealt on the carried to excess, as the 'spirit of error" of this age. The points were well-taken and enforced with a wise conservatism calculated to impress the truth upon all. In juxtaposition he placed the things that were working for a "spirit of truth" that were antidotes for the too strenuous activities of the age, and stated that notwithstanding all the "errors" of the day, the world was growing better and stronger.

The acts and conduct of the men belonging to these lawless bands, if judged by themselves, in their sober senses, and unexcited moments, when reason and common sense is allowed full sway, could only be characterized by themselves, as brutal and cowardly, hence it is not surprising that their acts and conduct in the estimation of all decent and law-respecting rors of the mob shall become supreme citizens, is horrifying. Their methods and lawless conduct ought and must be suppressed. The boldest man who has been thoughtless enough burglar or robber is not guilty of a and reckless enough, to connect himmore heinous offense against law and self with these lawless bands, and to order and the peace of society than chgage in these unlawful and unwarthe members of these lawles bands, ranted outbreaks, will be heartily and it behooves the members of the ashamed of his connection therewith, obacco associations, as well as all or that he has entertained a sentiother good citizens - terrorized ment in accord with such conduct.

Within the last thirty days, a band these "outlaws" in number estimated at about 150, visited the town of Birmingham, in Marshall county, between the hours of 12 and 2 o'clock says: in the night time, shot to death two ome of them at least, were inoffensive and harmless negroes and were making as good citizens as their race can furnish, and why these negroes hould have been shot to death and their humble homes riddled with builets, is beyond comprehension, unless it be that tobacco barns of supposed adversaries had become scarce and the mob required something on which to feed. At any rate it is horrible to contemplate, that in a civilized community, and in Kentucky, where the boast has ever been of the chivalry and bravery of its men, and their readiness to meet a foe in the open. and face to face, that such a number of men could be found that would engage in such a brutal and cowardb outrage, and sad indeed is the thought reckless men engaged in this mob is guilty of the crime of murder, the as to time, and his punishment fixed

It has often been stated and I have a long time beer of the opinion, that the stability of our governmental institutions and the proper enforcement of our laws, were in a greater REBD'S CHARGE degree dependent on our rural population and sparsely settled communities, than that of the crowded cities, where propinquity and easy access of one citizen to another can so easily breed and generate evil disorder, and political corruption. Hence the surprise at present conditions in Kentucky is greatly intensified, when we contemplate that the existing conditions of outlawry, and the inexpisable and unpardonable outbreaks menour citizenship on which the public

If our tobacco growers and farmers have so far forgotten themselves as to foment and fan into existence among themselves a spirit of anarchy and lawlessness, what have we to hope for, or to expect, from crowded cities with a dense, mixed and often questionable population? If the present conditions and the spirit recently manifested by what has always been we may as well sigh a sad requiem to law, good order and liberty.

But I repeat that I do not believe, I cannot believe that any respectable number of our tobacco growers, either in, or out, of the associations, belong to, or are connected with these lawless bands. To so believe, would be to believe that we have reached that point in our history, where law and order shall no longer reign and that anarchy and the terand I cannot but believe that when reason assumes its sway, that every

AN INTERESTING LETTER

M. PERLSTEIN & CO. Cloaks and Suits 80 University Place

NEW YORK, April 23, 1908.

Mr. Lee Levy, Paducah, Ky.

Dear Sir: We have finally decided on receipt of your telegram to accept your cash offer made us on the 200 suits, and use no hesitancy in saying that, considering the excellent make and materials used in their construction, you will find them the best values ever offered to the ladies of your section. It has taken us quite some time to make up our minds, hence the delay. The suits, however, have been shipped by American Express and we feel that both of us, as well as your customers, will be greatly benefitted by these great values. Owing to the financial stringency here in New York we are forced at this season to make many transactions at a loss; however, this is the largest we have had this season and trust we will not be placed in this same position again.

Thanking you very much for past favors, we are

(Signed)

M. PERLSTEIN.
